The Basis of Belonging: It's All About Connection

Creative Cooperation Series

Session two of this series delves into connection. It is interpersonal connection that gives a child a sense of belonging and worth. This session features Lilliam Civantos, a psychologist who has an active counseling practice. Lilliam will lead us through aspects of the child's cognitive development involved in interpersonal connection.

In addition, session two will include a hands-on activity that can facilitate connection with your children. Attending the first session is not a pre-requisite for attending this second session; each session can be enjoyed on an individual basis.
